The ire prevention campaign was dis- ussed at this meeting, and plans were nade for the convention to be held n Half Moon Bay next Sunday, at which time the firemen and their families and friends expect to have a most enjoyable time. GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The attendance was fine last Sab- bath and we hope to see it grow until the house is crowded. The music had the old time ring and the orchestra was back on the job, and all went fine f r the day.

We are endeavoring to bring to the people nothing but the best, and the general public is invited to come and hear Dr. Donaldson next Sunday even- ing at 8 o'clock. We are planning a special program of music, and we need you to help make the music ring.

Special thought is being given at this time for a regular rally day ser- vice, and all are invited to help to plan for it. Don't forget, Dr. Don- aldson will preach Sabbath evening.

No city or community can rise higher than its moral tone, and the moral tone is controlled by the in- terest of its people in the church and Bible, and we ask: What are you doing to help raise the standard.

Chas. H. Gatchell, Minister. Phone Delaware 1544.

This Friday evening the school is giving a reception for the Freshmen.

Football practice under Mr. Cooley is already under way, with about twenty-five candidates for the team.

NATIONAL FORESTS HAVE BANNER BUSINESS YEAR

Receipts from the eighteen national forests of California for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, totaled $1,276,245, it is reported. This is the largest annual revenue ever received from Federal forest resources in this state, and exceeds the receipts of the preceding fiscal year by $289,600.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND IN SHACK

Missing since Monday, following an attempt to take her life, Miss Libera Rich, aged 17, living at 156 Los Olivos avenue, Daly City, was found early Wednesday in a deserted cabin at Miramar by Constable Fred Simmons of Half Moon Bay.

The officer found the girl, who is a deaf mute, huddled in a dark corner of the old cabin, where she had secreted herself Monday night, because of de- spondency over a love affair, which had caused her to make a suicide at- tempt last Saturday, it was revealed in notes which Constable Simmons in- duced the girl to write in answer to questions.

The girl declined food after being taken to a restaurant, although she had not eaten since Monday, when she disappeared from the home of rela- tives in Daly City. Constable Sim- mons communicated with Mrs. M. A. Becker, an aunt with whom the girl lived and who had reported her dis- appearance. The girl was kept at the home of Constable Simmons in Half Moon Bay until called for by Mrs. Becker, who brought her back to her Daly City home.

Finding of the young woman ended a three day search instituted by police of San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

Mrs. Becker said the girl became despondent Saturday and left home Saturday night. She returned Sunday morning, suffering from the effects of poison taken with suicidal intent. She was sent to St. Luke's hospital, San Francisco, for treatment, but made her escape from the hospital Sunday e-ening. Monday the search began which ended in her discovery in the Miramar shack.

SAN MATEO MAN MEETS TRAGIC END

Dr. Niles G. Hyatt, prominent San Mateo advertising man and secretary of the Burlingame-San Mateo Kiwanis Club, met a tragic death, in company with his 6-year-old daughter, early Wednesday morning, when his auto- mobile was wrecked on the state high- way two miels north of Atascadero, San Luis Obispo county.

The bodies of Dr. Hyatt and his daughter, Nilas, together with the re- mains of the girl's pet dog, were found in the wreckage of the machine by Constable E. V. Jarvis at an early hour Wednesday morning.

W. A. Barnes, of Los Angeles, who was driving south, told the officer he had passed a burning automobile and suggested that fire apparatus be sent to the scene to prevent the spread of flames to a nerby field of dry grass.

Constable Jarvis took the fire truck to the scene of the blaze, and made the gruesome discovery of the two burned bodies, along with that of the family pet. All three of the bodies were in the back seat, and Hyatt was half way out of the automobile.

It is supposed that the automobile took fire while it was still in opera- tion, and turned over after it had become mired when Hyatt pulled off to the side of the road. The gasoline freed from the tank as the machine capsized, enveloped the entire ma- chine. Hyatt presumably climbed from the front of the car to the rear, to save his young daughter, but was unable to get out of the wreckage be- fore he was overcome by the flames and burned to death. The body of little Nilas was burned beyond recog- nition, and Hyatt's legs were com- pletely burned.

Mr. Hyatt leaves a widow and three little girls.

Saint Maximus Church Artistic and Permanent

Although St. Maximus church is one of the newest of the diocese, still it is already established firmly and built to be permanent.

In every detail it is pronounced to be both fire and earthquake proof. There is nothing flimsy about it.

In this respect, what is written about the church may also be applied to the parochial residence, which is an example of the best architectural de- signing and careful workmanship in this city.

The church and residence, together, present a perfect group of substantial edifices, a credit to any community and especially so to this parish.

The sancutary of the church has been decorated recently in such a dis- tinctive, artistic way that no one can look upon the work without feeling, religiously, the charm of it. There is no possibility of doing it any measure of justice through describing it. Suffice to say its appropriateness and modest beauty defy description. In addition to the decoration, the new pictures, each a wonderful work of art, painted by a great artist of Rome, have arrived and have been set in their respective places. Of course these pictures add greatly to the per- fection of the beauty of the whole interior.

The complete arrangement intro- duces a new and better idea for church decoration, omitting completely statues of every description. Statues are beautiful, surely, but real paint- ings, such as St. Maximus church has the good fortune to possess, are far more appealing.

These paintings, twenty-four in number, are valued, according to our standards, at approximately $50,000.

All are the gifts of different people of the parish, and they have been given to honor the memory of departed ones.

How much better they are than mounments in the cemetery! They will always be taken care of and never lose their appealing influence.

Thus St. Maximus shows the modern way.

On Sunday next, August 15, the members of St. Maximus church will celebrate the completion of the parish buildings, which include church, parish hall, and parochial residence.

ALL PUPILS MUST ATTEND SCHOOL

One more step has been taken by the board of trustees of the Jefferson Union high school to safeguard the interests of the children of the dis- trict. Mr. Gray, of Colma, has been appointed to act as attendance officer for the high school district.

Instructions have been received from Miss Abbott, county superin- tendent of schools, that all the pupils of this county must attend school in this county. Also, the law requires that all children under the age of 16 must attend full time day school.

Mr. Gray will see that the law is enforced in this district. He will have the support of all right thinking peo- ple in this district.

SHERIFF McGOVERN FAST RECOVERING

Late reports from the Mills Me- morial hospital in San Mateo are to the effect that Sheriff T. C. McGovern is making a rapid recovery from in- juries sustained when his automobile was struck at the intersection of the state highway and San Bruno road by a machine owend by Casber Yazyian of San Francisco. Yazyian met death in the accident.

Friends of Sheriff McGovern will be glad to learn of his rapidy recovery. While it is not likely that he will be able to take further part in the cam- paign, his friends are rallying to his support, and Dr. J. C. McGovern is taking charge of the campaign during the time his brother is incapacitated from his injuries.

Red Cross Meeting in Berkeley

Every California chapter and branch from Fresno county north is expected to send delegates to a regional con- ference of the National Red Cross that will be held at the Claremont Hotel, Berkeley, from August 19 to 20. At least two persons of interna- tional note will appear at the con- ference.

EVENING SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED

Registration in the Jefferson evening high school last Monday showed a strong demand for commercial sub- jects, as was expected. Two teachers will be employed for commercial sub- jects this year if the attendance war- rants it. Miss Reveal is at present offering typing and shorthand, and Miss Robinson bookkeeping and typ- ing. In this way it is possible for one to specialize in either bookkeeping or shorthand and to combine such study with typing.

Mrs. Frary, who so successfully taught citizenship to foreigners last year, is again teaching the same sub- ject.

Classes in commercial branches are open Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9, while citizenship classes meet Monday, Tuesday Wed- nesday and Thursday evenings.

Register early for these classes, as late registration works a hardship on those who started the first night.

HALF MOON BAY MAN LEAVES ESTATE VALUED AT $70,000

Petition for probate of the will of Thomas C. Johnston, late rancher of the Half Moon Bay district, was filed at Redwood City last Saturday by District Attorney Franklin Swart, named as executor in the will, which leaves the estate to two brothers of the deceased, Charles B. Johnston of Half Moon Bay, and Henry C. Johns- ton, of San Jose. The will disposes of an estate valued at more than $70,- 000, consisting of ranch lands at Half Moon Bay and valuable stocks and bonds. Johnston died recently at Bel- mont.

Addition to Millbrae School

Millbrae is to have an additional room built on their school as the re- sul of an election held last week in Millbrae and Lomita Park. In Lomita Park, 33 votes were cast, 26 for and 7 against the proposed addition. In Millbrae, where 37 votes were cast, 34 were for and 3 against

TWO MEET DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two men met death as the result of being run down by automobiles on the Peninsula highway last Sunday, one of them the victim of a hit-and-run driver, according to traffic police.

The victims were Claud Forrest, aged 21, whose home was at 618 Web- ster street, Palo Alto, and Guiseppi Curatto, aged 40, of Millbrae. The latter died Monday morning at Mills Memorial hospital, San Mateo, after lingering for several hours after he had beeen struck. He had suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. Curotti was run down by a motorist, as yet unidentifed, when he attempted to walk across the highway just oppo- site the gates of the Spring Valley Water Company's property at Aqua. The man was hurled to the pavement and thrown against a car driven by J. Nielson, of San Francisco, who stopped immediately, investigating officers said. Driving immediately behind Nielson was Byron Bishop, of Burlingame, who was unable to stop his car before it had crashed into the rear of the Nielson machine.

Witnesses were unable to identify the machine which knocked Curotti to the pavement and sped away in the darkness.

Forrest died at the Penisula hos- pital, Palo Alto, after being hit by a car driven by Roy Hopper, chauffeur for Mrs. A. Kittredge, of Saratoga, Santa Clara county. He was attempt- ing to walk across the state highway at Atherton when the accident oc- curred.

DROVE TOO NEAR EDGE OF HIGHWAY

August Rauch, aged 51, driver of a tractor which was towing a threshing machine, lost his life Monday after- noon and three others had narrow escapes from serious injury when both machines toppled over a steep em- bankment beside the La Honda road and crashed into La Honda creek, more than 20 feet below.

Rauch was caught beneath the wreckage of the heavy tractor and was dead when released, his body being terribly mangled. Rauch was unmar- ried and worked on various ranches in the Pescadero district for several years. He was a native of Germany.

The tractor and threshing machine are the property of Charles Kreiss, a rancher, and were being moved to San Gregorio at the time of the accident, which occurred near Troutmere.

Rounding a curve on the canyon road, Rouch drove too near the edge of the embankment, which gave way beneath the weight of the heavy ma- chinery, witnesses said. Both tractor and thresher rolled into the creek at the bottom of the canyou. Due to the isolation of the spot and the position in which the weighty machines lodged, workmen were engaged throughout the night in removing the wreckage.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE MAY RESULT FROM AUTO ACCIDENT

Investigations toward manslaughter charges against the driver of the automobile which seriously injured Sheriff T. C. McGovern and killed C. H. Yaziyan, San Francisco importer, when it crashed into the sheriff's car at San Bruno, Wednesday night of last week, are being made, following an inquest, when a sworn statement from one of the passengers of the Yazyian car declared that the auto was being driven by William R. Cole, 1328 Sacramento street, San Fran- cisco.

Three other passengers in the car had previously told officers that the machine, which belonged to Yaziyan, was driven by the latter, who died of a broken vertebra, ascording to the verdict of the coroner's jury, follow- ing the death probe at the offices of Deputy Coroner George W. Sneider at San Mateo.

Louis Dupont, living at the same address as Cole, was the passenger whose statement was read to the cor- oner's jury, saying that Cole was the driver of the death car. Dupont is still confined to the South San Fran- cisco hospital as a result of injuries received in the crash.

Cole will be charged with man- slaughter and responsibility for the accident, if Dupont's statements are upheld by additional evidence being secured.

SUITS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

Suits totaling more than $2,500 were filed in the Superior Court at Redwood City last Saturday against B. U. Brandt, as the result of an auto- mobile accident at San Bruno last May. Loui Solvetto, of San Brauno, names Brandt in a suit for damages of $2,537 for injuries received in the accident. V. Bodio, owner of the car driven by Solvetto, which collided with Brandt's machine, filed suit against Brandt for $310 damages to the car.

DISCUSS COUNTY EXPOSITION PLAN

Plans for an industrial exposition to be held in San Mateo county were launched Monday afternoon at an enthusiastic meeting of boosters from all sections of the Peninsula, held in the offices of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce.

The date and place of the exposi- tion, which will be one of the most pretentious ever held in Northern California, according to present plans, will be decided later.

The plan is to have an eight day exposition in which all the industries of San Mateo couunty will be ex- hibited and made known outside of the immediate vicinity.

Hugo J. Bettelheim, president of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce, presided, and said in part:

"We have in San Mateo county large and important industries that ought to be exhibited and made known. Let us take for instance the Leslie Salt Works in San Mateo. There are many people who do not know that such a place exists, or how salt is made. This would be exhibited and would educate the people. Redwood City and South San Francisco, our main indus- trial communities in this county, have valuable industries which even people in our own county do not know about. At first the idea was to have an automobile show, but after much discussion and thought on the matter, it was decided to make it a really important educational affair that would advertise our county.

"The exposition will be financed by those industries desiring space to ex- hibit their goods. The spaces will be large and very nominal in price. We will draw crowds not only from San Francisco, but all the bay counties, for if we attempt to put it over at all we will put it over big. What's more, if it proves a success, we will make it an annual event. This is practically the only county in the state that has not an annual county fair, automobile show, rodeo, fiesta or something of the sort to advertise our communities."

A live committee was appointed at the meeting to look after the matter at once and report something definite within the near future. The problems which the committee must solve are:

Where shall the exposition be held?

How many industries will be ex- hibited?

What will be the cost?

What added attractions should be held in connection with it, such as side shows, concessions, dance floors, and so forth?

Jack Ryan, of San Mateo will head the committee, composed of John Forsythe and Jack Bromfield, of Bur- lingame, Joseph Walker, secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of South San Francisco, and Martin A. Poss, of San Mateo.

REDWOOD CITY TO HAVE COUNTY AID

A third of the expense of repaving one-half mile of Phelps street, Red- wood City, will be borne by San Mateo county, it was decided at a meeting of the board of supervisors last Mon- day. Phelps street is a lateral con- necting Redwood City with the Mid- dlefield road and the new Dumbarton vehicular bridge.

It was estimated that it would cost $40,000 to repair this half-mile of road, and the supervisors agreed to pay one-third of the cost if property owners residing on the street would pay one-third and Redwood City the remaining one-third.

A. W. Tate, county horticultural commisisoner, was appointed to take charge of the San Mateo county ex- hibit at the state fair at Sacramento this fall. He was given a $500 fund for expenses.

Hearing on the abandonment of por- tions of the old highway between San Mateo and Half Moon Bay was set for September 16.

San Mateo county will co-operate with Santa Cruz in constructing a lateral through Butno canyon to con- nect with the Skyline boulevard.

LEGION MEETING PLANS COMPLETED

All plans have been completed for the state convention of the American Legion, which will be held at Susan- ville, August 15 to 19, it is announced by Adjutant James K. Fisk of the Legion.

By train, automobile and airplane will the delegates go to the conven- tion, which is expected to be the largest ever held by the Legion in this state.

The state headquarters of the Legion was moved to Susanville yesterday to establish convention offices. State Commander Allen B. Bixby will be there, and also Adjutant Fisk. The entertainment features of the con- clave will include a golf tourney, visits to Mt. Lassen, a rodeo, dances, special muscial events, and an outdoor bar- becue at Eagle Rock.

Why ELSA S. McGINN Should be Elected to Represent the Forty-second District (San Mateo County) in the State Assembly:

Because Mrs. McGinn was one of the first and has continued as one of the foremost advocates of a San Mateo county bridge over San Francisco bay. She has made a study of modern legislation to supplant the obsolete statutes which have thus far handicapped efforts to give adequate transportation to the county by means of a bay bridge. Mrs. McGinn is qualified to secure passage of this greatly needed legislation, as San Mateo county's representative at Sacramento.

"A Progressive Woman for a Progressive County"

New accounts, comparable to a city the size of Denver, Colorado, or Portland, Oregon, were added to our books last year. The growth this year will be greater.

Joining with the people of northern California, we welcome this progress and prosperity.

We pledge our faith in the future of the State by investing large sums for power developments now under way on the Pit, the Bear, the Mokelumne, and the Stanislaus Rivers. We will have available, plenty of power at low rates for the new homes, factories and farms that are being established.

American girls who marry titles are sometimes disappointed to find that they got less than they bargained for. But Bebe Daniels, film star, became engaged to Charlie Paddock, famed American sprinter, only to learn later that he is a real knight, the order of knighthood having been conferred upon him by the king of Montenegro in Paris in 1919.

The Prince of Wales recently had a graceful reminder of his South American tour. While attending a civic reception at Hempstead, England, two young girls attending a local school stepped forward to greet him, and presented a pretty bouquet bearing the following note: "We, two sisters, one born at Buenos Aires and the other at Valparaiso (Chile), offer in the name of the school girls of those two countries this small bouquet as a token to record the occasion of your visit to them."

Cardinal Casanova, primate of Spain, returning from the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, was eagerly questioned regarding America by King Alfonso. The cardinal assured the king that he would receive a warm welcome in the United States, and the king again considers a visit to our shores. He ought to come and see what Columbus really discovered.

A signature of Button Gwinett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, recently sold for $2,500. at public auction. Now the state of Georgia claims that it was stolen from its archives in Atlanta and seeks to recover it. Much ado about a scrap of paper.

Dartmouth College will have as a new course the study of comparative religions, which is not a particularly striking announcement in itself. But the unusual feature connected with the innovation is that the teacher will be Dr. S. L. Joshi, a native of India, and a graduate of a Mohammedan university. He is also a student of Columbia anad Union Theological Seminary. He will teach the principles of Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Judaism, Brahamanism and other religions, including Christianity.

The government of Manitoba has offered $2,000 in prizes in a crow killing contest, in which one point will be scored for each crow's egg and two points for each crow's leg delivered.

GOT BACK AT HIM

While there can be no reasonable objection to the custom of calling for bids on any contract involving a large amount, the habit many business and professional men have of chasing bids on small quantities of printed matter is sometimes exasperating to printers.

In many cases bids are asked on jobs amounting to but a few dollars, where securing the proposals must inevitably cost more in time and trouble than any possible saving would repay.

According to a story now being widely published, one printer got weary of biding on trivial jobs, and when a surgeon asked him for bids on a small quantity of letterheads, and also requested that the type form be left standing, so that he might have the benefit of cheaper rates for any possible future orders, the printer wrote the surgeon this letter:

"Am in the market for bids on one operation for appendicitis. One, two or five inch incision—with or without ether—also with or without nurse. If appendix is found to be sound, want quotations to include putting back same and cancelling order. If removed, successful bidder is expected to hold incision open for about sixty days, as I expect to be in the market for an operation for gallstones at that time and want to save the extra cost of cutting."

CHEAP POWER ENABLED CITY TO MAKE PROGRESS

A little more than twenty years ago, when the South San Francisco Light and Power Company, with W. J. Martin at its head, went into business, it found but four manufacturing establishments in South San Francisco, and one of these had its own electric power plant. Today in that same terriory the Pacific Gas and Electric Company supplies current to a string of industral establishments thirty in number and employing 4500 men and women.

Electricity, combined with enterprise and communty spirit transformed a small town in to one of the most important industrial centers on the Pacific Coast. South San Francisco, ideally situated, has taken advantage of its opportunities.

JEFFERSON FACULTY BOASTS OF TWO NEW COMMERCE TEACHERS

Mrs. J. Brown, nee Miss Belloni, and Miss H. Reveal are the two new faculty members of Jefferson high. Both of the teachers are conducting commercial classes this year.

Mrs. Brown is known by the upper classmen, because she had been a member of the faculty until a year ago, when serious illness forced her to take a leave of absence.

Miss Reveal is a graduate of the University of California, and was a teacher in the State Teachers' College. Then she was a Federal supervisor of commercial education in San Francisco and has been in the reconstruction aid work in the United States. Miss Reveal will teach shorthand, typing and junior business methods in night school. She has had much experience in office work, as she has been an accountant, stenographer, bookkeeper and office manager in large business houses in San Francisco.

WARNING TO HUNTERS

BASING its action on the abundance of wild life in San Mateo County, and on the importance of protecting the private property on which this wild life multiplies, the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo County last year passed Ordinance No. 342 containing the following language:

"Section 1. It shall be unlawful to hunt on or shoot on or to trespass while in the possession of firearms on any private property without first having procured and without having in his or her possession the written consent of the owner or owners or lessee or lessees of such private property.

"Section 2. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, constables and all peace officers to enforce this ordinance."

The greatest animal refuge in San Mateo County is the Spring Valley watershed, comprising some thirty-six square miles. All sorts of wild life abound there, notably deer, which are remarkably tame. Deer refuges such as this are of very great benefit in California to replenish the herds. It is therefore imperative that deer refuges be respected by hunters.

SPRING VALLEY WATER COMPANY, with the help of the authorities, Federal, State and County, has for years safeguarded the deer on the San Mateo watershed. It proposes to continue this course.

Those hunters who do not respect private property or an animal refuge are hereby warned that the law is being vigorously enforced, that Spring Valley Water Company has the cooperation of the Fish and Game Commission, that the watershed is intensively patrolled during the hunting season, and that hunters caught on the watershed will be arrested and prosecuted.

Motorists who were stopped by traffic officers at Merced recently, received unexpected treatment. The county chamber of commerce distributed a ton and a half of Elberta peaches to tourists enroute to Yosemite National park. The services of a squad of state motor policemen were enlisted. As automobiles rounded the corner of G and Twenty-first streets, Inspector James Morrison halted each with a determined look on his face. Expressions of dismay changed quickly to delight as the officers handed each driver a basket of peaches.

Charles Brown, 92, champion fiddler of Novato, is anxious to meet in competition the fiddlers of Sonoma county. That the aged fiddler may have brought to a fruition his lifelong ambition, the directors of the Marin County Fair and Harvest Festival have decided to aid him by offering a prize for the best fiddler. The contest will be held during the three days, August 20, 21 and 22, that the Marin County Fair and Harvest Festival will be in progress at Novato. All fiddlers 60 years of age and over are eligible to compete.

Marking the last resting place of Shasta county's oldest pioneer, a bronze tablet has been placed over the grave of Major Pierson B. Reading in a little cemetery located near Major Reading's original adobe house. Reading came to California in 1843 and received a large grant of land from Governor Manuel Micheltoreno for his services in assisting in putting down an insurrection. He participated in the Sonoma convention in 1846, at which the independence of California was declared. He died in 1868.

Farmers in the Riverbank district have taken the initial steps to form a water users' association, since it is apparent that the irrigation supply is acutely short this season. Bruce C. Hill, large farmer, is secretary of the organization. A number of huge pumps will be placed in the Stanislaus river to throw water into the canals and thus help this section of the county. A number of private plants will also be utilized to pump water directly into the ditches.

George A. Wanamaker, pioneer drayman and widely known citizen of Grass valley, died at the age of 85 years after a long illness. Wanamaker had been a member of the volunteer fire department for sixty years or more, being the patriarch of the department, and on the retired list only during the last few years. He came from Nova Scotia as a young man and had lived at his home on North Auburn Street continuously since.

Yolo county properties are shown to have increased, in assessed value, approximately half a million dollars within the last year in assessment rolls prepared by County Assessor Byron F. Hillhouse. The total assessment for the current year is $27,425,159, as compared with $26,931,750 for last year. Real estate values, inside incorporated areas, total $984,895 and improvements $2,410,4170. Farm property is assessed at $17,195,450.

The new Yosemite All-Year Highway between Merced and Yosemite valley was thrown open July 31, by Governor Friend W. Richardson, following ceremonies at Clark's Ranch near the quaint and historic old mining town of Mariposa. The new road shortens the trip to Yosemite by more than three hours and eliminates the high mountain grades. It makes Yosemite easily accessible to motorists 365 days of the year.

Secretary Chas. W. Paine of the California State Fair, says the class of horses that are to compete at the coming State Fair, September 4th to 11th, are the best that have contested for the purses in the last ten years. The entries which recently closed for the purse races contain some of the best trotters and pacers on the Pacific Coast and give promise of some gruelling heats being contested.

Four beacon lights of the rotating type to direct air mail planes, with a total of approximately 5,000 horsepower, are being installed on top of El Capitan Hotel, the tallest building in Merced. The lights will direct the planes of the Pacific Air Transport Company, which has the air mail route between Seattle and Los Angeles. The planes will pass Merced at night at an elevation of 3,000 feet.

Lassen county is ready to receive more than 2,000 members of the California American Legion, who will gather at Susanville on August 16 for their 1926 convention. The task of housing the visitors has proved so great that quarters are being arranged in cars on the railroad siding to care for the overflow. A trout dinner and an old-time steer barbecue are among the features planned.

The time-limit for receiving slogans has not expired, and those coming in during August will receive consideration, he states.

GOOD RULES FOR SUMMER TOURIST

Observance Will Aid in Avoiding Road Trouble.

Now that the summer touring season is here and the highways and byways are overrun with vacationists, tourists and others going nowhere in particular and in a big hurry to get there, let us take "count of stock" and see what we, who also expect to be on the road may do to insure our emergence from this season, still sound of wind and limb and without having accidents. Here are a few suggestions in the interests of safety.

1. Be sure that your lights are adjusted properly at the start and test them frequently to see that they remain in adjustment.

2. Be sure that your brakes are properly adjusted and test them to see if you can stop the car in the required distance for a given speed.

3. When about to execute any movement that can possibly affect the manipulation of another car make the proper signal in a decided and distinct manner. Do this even though you don't see the other car and do not know that there is one in the immediate vicinity.

How to Use Horn.

4. "Spare the horn," in dense traffic. Be prodigal in your use of the horn on mountain roads, particularly when approaching a curve where the view is obstructed. Always sound horn when about to pass a car going in the same direction. Remember that one of the "Calls of the Open Road" is the sound of the horn when used properly.

5. Do not burn up your brake linings on steep grades—you may have use for them later. Use the motor to brake the car on grades. A good thumb rule is to descend a hill in the same gear you would use in ascending it and never descend a hill with the gears in neutral.

6. In loading your camping paraphernalia, be sure that the load does not extend beyond the hub cap on the left nor more than six inches beyond the hub cap on the right.

7. In passing through streams or other bodies of water do not dash in in high gear. Go into low gear before entering the water and remain so until dry land has been reached.

Share With Others.

8. Do not hog the road. If a person who is in a bigger hurry than you are should come up behind you, assist him in passing, then neither you nor he will be worried.

9. Do not try to beat any railroad trains to crossings. No automobile has yet tried to oppose a train without coming off second best.

10. Always be sure your campfire is absolutely out before leaving it. Also, be sure your cigarette, cigar, pipe ashes and matches are dead before they are thrown away. Carry in the car a small box or can of earth for extinguishing purposes. Oftentimes a tiny spark which gives no evidence of life in the cool morning will burst into flame in the noonday heat and cause immense property damage and possible loss of life.

Shellac Coating Useful to Protect Auto Bolts

A thin coating of shellac is an effective anti-rust protection for bolts and nuts. The substance will also prevent a nut from turning and will reduce the annoyance of loose and rattling parts. Both nut and bolt should be dipped in thin shellac. After being put in place with the nut tightened, the bolt should have a little additional shellac applied to its end. This treatment will not only prevent rusting, but will allow the nut to be taken off more easily. As a general rule, it is very hard to rustproof small parts. Sometimes they are coated with grease or graphite, but this soon wears off and the rust continues to accumulate. Some forms of paint are frequently used, but these, too, are not permanent protection. The shellac coating is expected to overcome this.

Stolen Car Toots

When Sheriff Smith of Salina, Kan., enters his motor car there is no unusual alarm, but when a stranger enters it the horn begins sounding and toots a second.

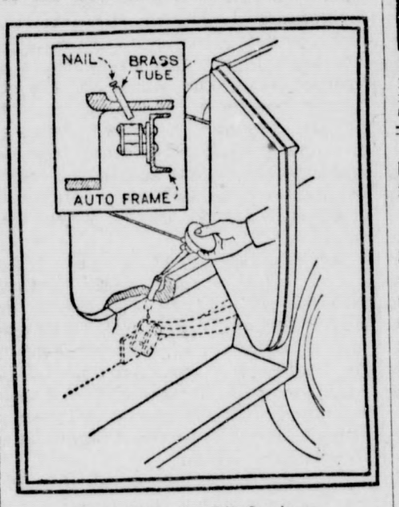
A man whose car was parked beside the sheriff's attempted to back out and his fender rubbed the official's car. At once the horn began sounding the alarm. The sheriff rushed out to the curbing from a store, expecting to pick up a car thief.

"What's the matter with that car," asked the man in the car trying to back out.

"Nothing at all, except that it is calling me," answered the sheriff.

Easy Means Provided for Oiling the Rear Springs

By drilling a ¼-inch hole through the floorboards on either side of his car at the point indicated in the drawing, an automobile owner provided an easy means of oiling the rear springs. He found, however, that dirt soon clogged the holes, causing the oil to seep along the underside of the floor and over the outside of the apron, which accumulated dust and presented a dirty appearance. This trouble he remedied by inserting a short length of brass tubing, flared out at the top, in each hole. The tube extended about ½ inch below the running board shield and was bent to come directly above the spring shackles. Short nails were used to plug the holes between oilings.—R. C. Tarr, Gloucester, Mass., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.



Easy Way to Oil Springs.

Tire Resiliency Much Increased by Invention

A Hungarian inventor has perfected a new method of attaining a 400 per cent increase of resiliency in pneumatic tires without changing diameter, cross section, shape, form or general appearance. An extra cushioning effect is attained by using a double disk wheel and by converting the entire hollow space between the two walls into an airtight compartment which holds air under pressure as permanently in service as that accomplished by the inner tube of the tire. Communication between the tire and the air chamber in the wheel makes the latter virtually an extension of the former in point of cushioning effect.

QUEEN VICTORIA LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Two Famous Women Born the Same Year

In the year 1819, two babies were born whose lives were destined to have a far reaching influence. One was born in a stern castle of Old England, the other in a humble farmhouse in New England.

Queen Victoria through her wisdom and kindliness during a long and prosperous reign has become enthroned in the hearts of the British people. Lydia E. Pinkham through the merit of her Vegetable Compound has made her name a household word in many American homes.

One of the many women who praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Mrs. Adolph Bratke of 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebr., who was in a rundown condition for four years before she tried the Compound. "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she writes, "and I have felt my health steadily improving." Mrs. Bratke continued to take the Compound for a year and a half and at the end of that time she found herself in excellent health. "I am feeling fine now and do all my work myself," she wrote in her most recent letter. "I am the mother of six and manage an eight-room house without anybody to help."

WHAT POVERTY MEANS

At times when we become discouraged, and feel that the world is not treating us fairly, it would be well to reflect upon the terrible poverty that is being endured by the unhappy people of the eastern hemisphere.

Just one instance of this is seen in the plight of 120,000 Bulgarian refugees, who have been left homeless and landless by the interchange of populations between Balkan countries since the war. In their case an effort is being made to render assistance through a $10,000,000 loan to be raised under the auspices of the League of Nations, which has already aided Greek refugees to some extent.

This loan, if arranged, will only provide a rough house, some seed, a cow, one-half share in a plow and a cart, and one-fourth share in a harrow for each family, with some provisions to aid them while a crop is being raised.

In a plea for these people, before the Council of the League, the representative of Belgium declared that he had never seen a more pitiful and tragic spectacle than that presented by these Bulgarian peasants, who had been torn from their homes and all they possessed through no fault of their own.

Only when we contemplate the abject poverty of such people as these can we begin to appreciate how fortunate we are to have been born in America, or that we decided to come to America to make our home.

WHO WILL BE SENATOR?

Leaving aside the matter of party politics, an interesting question has been raised by Congressman Lea of California, who when he is at home reside at Santa Rosa, concerning the Pennsylvania senatorship.

It has been believed by many that in the event of Vare's election he may not be seated by the Senate, on account of the large sum of money spent in his behalf during the primary campaign. This opinion is supported by the precedent afforded by the Newberry case, as well as by expression of numerous Senators who will vote on the question.

But Congressman Lea points out that if the Senate should fail to seat Vare, a Senator to fill the vacancy would be appointed by Governor Fisher. He declares that while the combination of Vare and Biedelman spent over $600,000, the combination of Pepper and Fisher spent over $1,600,000. Vare and Fisher were nominated.

Now, Congressman Lea contends, by depriving Vare of his seat in the Senate would permit the governor, whose combination spent nearly three times as much, to appoint a Senator in Vare's place. Probably he would appoint his running mate, Senator Pepper.

"If spending excessive amounts of money is wrongdoing," says Congressman Lea, "then the unseating of Vare would result in rewarding the greater offender, whom he had defeated."

Really, it is a nice little question that is to be passed up to the Senate, assuming, as seems probable, that Vare shall be successful in the general election.

The tariff commission will investigate the onion industry, possibly without the aid of an expert "smelling commission."

PEACE AND PACIFISM

Among all the "movements" now abroad in the world with the ostensible aim of promoting universal peace, there are some who use the cloak of a worthy cause in spreading propaganda of the most sinister sort.

Every right-minded person wants peace. But, as has often been pointed out, there is a great difference between desiring peace and being willing to sacrifice everything else to secure it.

The Revolutionary fathers might have had peace through submission to the encroachments of the British crown. Belgium might have had peace, for a little while at least, by allowing the Germans to cross her territory without resistance, at the beginning of the World war.

Illustrations like these might be multiplied indefinitely, to show what the doctrine of pacifism or non-resistance may lead to. While it is the hope of idealists that war eventually may be banished from the earth, few practical persons cherish any such delusion. About the best that may be hoped for is to reduce the causes of war to a minimum, and endeavor to localize hostilities which inevitably break out from time to time.

This result will be attained, not through either militarism or pacifism, but through reasonable preparedness for eventualities, while exerting every honorable means for preserving peace.

MEMORIAL TO "BIG SIX"

Christy Mathewson, affectionately known as "Big Six," who died last year, was perhaps the most admired and best loved player who ever graced a baseball diamond. He was esteemed as highly for his sterling character as for his consummate skill. It is most fitting that his memory is to be honored by the establishment of the Christy Mathewson Memorial Fund.

Sponsored by organized baseball and the American Legion, an organization has been formed for the purpose of "perpetuating the name of Christy Mathewson by a fund to be used to aid the sick and needy who come to Saranac Lake for treatment from all states of the Union; and by the establishment of a Mathewson Memorial club house for the use of World war veterans."

Mathewson died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., after a brave fight against tuberculosis, induced by his being gassed during the war. There he was an active member of Mathews Post of the Legion, and was instrumental in establishing a veterans' club and welfare fund. The memorial will carry on more extensively the philanthropic work begun by him.

The fund will be raised through beneft games by big league teams and by contributions from Legionnaires and others. At the first of these games there was unveiled at the Braves' field in Boston a tablet, appropriately inscribed: "In memory of Christopher Mathewson — gallant sportsman, courageous soldier, kindly gentleman."

Many who hold college degrees could easily go through life without its being suspected.

Profanity is banned in Italy, but the Fascisti are still permitted to swear by Mussolini.

"BREAKDOWN OF LAW"

At the recent annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Denver, it was openly admitted by prominent members that public confidence in the courts and their administration of the law is being steadily weakened.

A report was adopted denouncing "the growing prevalency of the use of expert witnesses, with their conflicting testimony" This referred particularly to the use of alienists in criminal cases, where experts may always be secured to testify that the accused is insane, provided he has the money to employ them.

As a matter of fact, lawyers in convention very frequently criticise the prevailing method of criminal procedure, but so far they have done very little to correct it.

Legislators are also to blame for the present state of affairs, but as most legislators are lawyers, the resposibility still rests almost wholly upon the legal profession.

By the passage of innumerable laws regulating everything under the sun, and imposing upon peace officers the task of enforcing trivial and foolish statutes, the perpetrators of major crimes, such as murder and robbery, have all the better chance to escape punishment. If more attention were given to the prevention and punishment of these serious offences, it might be possible to reduce their number pereceptibly.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL

Although many observers have been pessimistic regarding the ability of Congress to enact legislation for the final disposition of Muscle Shoals, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi in a recent statement declared his belief that action on the pending bill will be taken during the short session beginning in December.

Speaking of the bill, which was recommended by a special joint committee of the Senate and House last spring, but failed to come up for a vote, Senator Harrison said:

"The bill is one of constructive nature, and it carries out the purpose of the original act that made possible Muscle Shoals development. It insures the manufacture of fertilizer and the sale of surplus power, with every safeguard to protect the rights of the United States and of consumers of both fertilizer and hydro-electric energy. If there are any weaknesses in the bill, then we will cure them. But the bill is the very best that was proposed, both from the standpoint of the government and the consumers."

This bill embodies the proposal of the Alabama Power Company and associated power companies of the southeast, who would form a fertilizer corporation and a power distributing corporation under a fifty-year lease.

CRUELTY TO HEATHEN

Reports of an almost unbelievable outrage come from Korea, where Rev. C. A. Haysmeir, an American missionary, branded a small Korean boy for stealing apples.

According to press dispatches, the missionary burned the word "thief" on the flesh of each of the boys cheeks with nitrate of silver. Later the jeers of the child's playmates drove him from school, to carry the accusing scars perhaps for life.

To the credit of the Seventh Day Adventists, to which sect the missionary belonged, it may be said that upon proof of the charge, Haysmeir was promptly dismissed by the Far Eastern organization of the denomination, and his dismissal was approved by the Adventist mission board of Washington.

Such act of cruelty certainly demonstrated that the missionary was not entitled to remain in the church, or any church. In fact, we suspect he would be what is described as "an undesrirable citizen."

A GRUESOME HOBBY

Most persons have a hobby of some sort, but the strangest that has come to our attention is that of Phil Hana, a farmer of White county, Illinois, whose hobby is hanging people. According to a writer in Grit, Hana has hanged fifty-one men within the past thirty years.

Strange to say, Hana is said to be a very humane man. In fact, he declares that he hangs people "out of a humanitarian interest and a desire to help sheriffs who have no experience." He has a horror that some nervous sheriff might bungle a hanging job and cause the condemned man needless suffering.

Therefore, when he hears of a man condemned to be hanged, he offers his expert services to the sheriff concerned, without a fee, frequently even paying his own expenses to the place of execution. It is said that he has performed this service for sheriffs in Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, and Arkansas.

Hana has a complete hangsman's outfit with the exception of the gallows itself, including ropes, black caps, and straps to bind the condemned man's legs and arms, which he carries with him on his egagements. He says that he arranges all details so carefully that death is almost instantaneous.

As souvenirs of his gruesome hobby Hana has newspaper clippings telling the story of each execution at which he officiated, and other relics. He also has a large collection of "black hand" letters, threatening to kill him, to dynamite his home, and to kidnap his family, but no atempts have ever been made to carry out these threats, and he says these letters never worry him.

Revolting as Hana's hobby appears at first glance, it my be a commendable one after all. If he has really saved condemned wretches from prolonged agony, who can say that he has not performed a humanitarian service?

Mrs. Katherine A. Morton, superintendent of public instruction of Wyoming, while campaigning has to dance with cowboys and other unpolished constituents, but doesn't mind, because she says it's "good politics."

"The Lost Battalion," one of the most successful pictures of the season, will be presented at the New State Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, August 16 and 17. This is described as the most thrilling episode of the late World war. In addition to this excellent picture, there will be another feature, Richard Barthelmess in "Just Suppose." Both pictures have had a phenomenal run, and you should not fail to be present on this occasion.

NIKOLAI SOKOLOFF TO CONDUCT ORCHESTRA

Nikolai Sokoloff will be the conductor of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra next Sunday afternoon in Hillsborough. Mr. Sokoloff is the highly esteemed director of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra, as well as a solo violinist of international reputation. The program announced for next Sunday is the most beautiful and interesting one yet presented. It includes the popular "New World" symphony by Dvorak and The Introduction to Act 3 from "Lohengrin," which contains the well loved bridal march and chorus from Wagner's opera of that name.

The novelty work to be heard is "A Pagan Poem," (After Virgil), written by Charles Martin Loeffler, who was born in Mulhausen, Alsace, and now lives in Medfield, Mass. This composition is scored for orchestra and piano, English horn and three trumpets. To secure an even more brilliant effect, Sokoloff has requested there be six of the latter.

Beryl Rubinstein, of world fame, has been engaged as the pianist for this score. He has appeared as soloist with all the leading European orchestras, as well as concertizing throughout America, and has given joint recitals with Ysave. Mr. Rubinstein is a composer and pedagogue. At one time he was head of the piano department in the Cleveland Institute of Music. His pianistic work is said to be characteristically virile, besides radiating a sense of poetry and romanticism.

JEWISH SERVICES COMING HOLY DAYS

For the first time in the history of the Jewish religious life of San Francisco, special Holydays services will be held this year on New Years day (September 8 and 9), and on the day of Atonement (September 17 and 18), for the benefit of men, women and children suffering from the ravages of the dreaded white plague.

In San Francisco, and larger cities, the existing synagogues can not accommodate all Jewish people who, on these special days, desire to attend worship. In order to serve the spiritual needs of the greatest number a sponsorship committee, composed of public spirited citizens, have undertaken to furnish facilities for devotion on these Holydays.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Gordon, minister of the First Congregational church, has been appealed to for the use of his edifice, and has generously placed his church at the disposal for this endeavor.

Rabbi Herman Rosenwasser, the only Rabbi called upon to testify in the famous Scopes trial at Dayton, Tennessee, whose expert testimony has been published in a booklet entitled "Is Evolution Spiritual?" has been called to officiate at these services.

Prominent musicians and celebrated soloists have volunteered their talents at these serviees. Choir and traditional musical program under the direction of Mr. Alfred H. Cammack, organist.

THE SHAME OF IT

That the initiative is being prostituted for political and personal gain is apparent in all sections of the United States. An instrument intended to be used by the people on voluntary signature, it has been so abused that it no longer attracts public interest or support. Why not make it unlawful to buy signatures to initiative petitions the same as to buy votes. The San Francisco Daily News says:

"The initiative petition seeking a constitutional amendment for the relief and better education of the blind in California has been withdrawn by those humanitarians having it in charge. Why? Simply because, having no money with which to push the petition, they were bound to fail of securing the necessary signatures.

"'One glaring fact has been uncovered in the recent campaign,' says the devoted but disgusted promoters of the petition, 'and that is the law providing for the placing of a proposition on the ballot by initiative has been shown to be confined to wealthy organizations and individuals. It has been shown that practically every initiative proposition which will qualify for the ensuing November election has been carried out by large sums of money.'

"In other words, a proposal whose purpose is not for the financial benefit of any person or set of persons, and is purely of a humanitarian nature, fails of appeal! Only money-supported initiative gets anywhere! It is an indictment to shame the state."

Loyal employes should always laugh heartily when the boss tells a stale joke.

America Leads Nations In Use Of Ice Cream

If any one food may be considered as America's national dish, it is ice cream.

Ice cream is a food particularly adapted to the needs of individuals of all ages, giving as it does the best type of nutrients for the repair of bone, teeth, blood and muscles and for energy.

Today thousands of housewives make their own ice cream. As a consequence, the making of this highly nutritious food at a reduced cost, yet without in any way impairing the product, is of importance.

Home economists have found a means to this end in the use of evaporated milk. There are three important reasons why evaporated milk makes the best ice cream, they point out. Because 60 per cent of the natural water in evaporated milk has been removed by evaporation, there is over twice the percentage of solids present in this type of milk than there is in ordinary market milk—and, since it is the solids that give ice cream its pleasing flavor, this fact is of moment.

Then, the composition of evaporated milk is constant, for the reason that it has been put through an homogenizing process, which breaks up the fat globules into tiny particles and distributes them evenly throughout the milk. This attribute makes for an ice-cream mixture of uniform quality and fine texture.

Finally, experts agree that the use of evaporated milk in ice cream contributes to its hygienic qualities, for the reason that evaporated milk is entirely sterile. Health authorities declare that milk and cream should be treated to a heat of 150 degrees F. for half an hour in order that a product may be produced free from infective organisms. Evaporated milk is processed at 240 degrees for 30 minutes, and, therefore, its introduction into an ice-cream mixture increases its purity in proportion to the amount of evaporated milk used.

Effective But Simple Dishes Now In Vogue

Something simple yet effective is the housewife's ideal for week-end dishes.

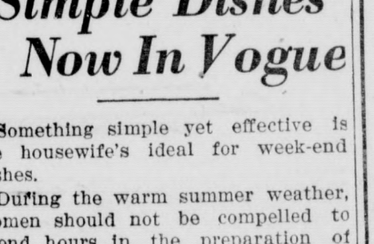
During the warm summer weather, women should not be compelled to spend hours in the preparation of meals, when minutes would accomplish the same purpose. Planning week-end menus should be a congenial task, not a bore. At this time of the year there are a variety of nutritious vegetables and fruits to choose from in preparing meals and the modern home manager takes advantage of them. The housewife plans her summer menus so that they will suggest coolness, while at the same time taking into consideration their dietary value. A delicious cream soup made from fresh vegetables, or an omelet, a fresh fruit dessert, or a custard, a dish of ice cream, or a pudding, are nourishing items that should find high favor in the week-end menu.

The home manager enjoys her week-ends 100 per cent more when she has a few moments of leisure. And in this connection the following recipes may prove an aid.

Creamy Salad Dressing.

1 cup boiled or mayonnaise dressing
⅓ cup evaporated milk
⅓ cup cream
1 tbsp. sugar
1 tbsp. fruit juice

Combine evaporated milk and cream, chill and whip. Add sugar and juice, then fold into salad dressing. Especially nice for fruit salads.



Chocolate Velvet Cream.

1⅓ tbsp. gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 eggs, beaten separate
½ cup sugar
2 squares (oz.) chocolate
¾ cup evaported milk diluted with ¾ cup water
1 tsp. butter
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tsp. flavoring
½ cup evaporated milk combined with
½ cup whipping cream, chilled and whipped

Soak gelatin in water five minutes. Mix beaten egg yolks and sugar, pour heated, diluted milk over slowly, put in double boiler with gelatin, butter and salt. Cook until the mixture thickens. This takes about 15 minutes. Strain, beat 2 minutes, let cool. Melt the chocolate over hot water, let cool a little, then add the chocolate and vanilla to the mixture after it has cooled. Fold in the stiff egg whites, then the whipped cream. Turn into a mold and chill at least 3 hours. It may be chilled in individual dessert glasses.

MOVIE STAR'S MOTHER DIES AT SAN MATEO

Besides Raymon Hatton she is survived by another son, John Hatton, of New York, and by a daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Budd of Hillsborough.

STUDENTS ARE ENROLLING AT LOCAL NIGHT SCHOOL

Night school started Monday evening, and will be given three times a week all during the day school semester. Students may enroll at any time, and are asked to sign for the courses desired, as any course will be offered if enough students enroll.

School is held Monday, Tuesday, and Friday evenings, beginning at 7 o'clock. Commercial, auto shop, and sewing courses are being tentatively offered; but if there is sufficient demand for other work it will be given.

In order to start a course, an average attendance of twelve must be established; so to insure this, an enrollment of fifteen or sixteen is required.

The Revised Hammarlund-Roberts Circuit

In reviewing the long line of circuits which have forged to the front in recent months, each one with its own special attributes claiming their due amount of attention, one cannot neglect considering the very popular Hammarlund-Roberts. Built up around the older famous Roberts reflex, it won immediate approval, and in its present form is satisfying its countless users. Yet, when one looks over this circuit, just as with others, there is the constant urge for improvement, revision, modification, and slight alterations to make it better. The Radio Broadcast Magazine laboratory, in experimenting with the Hammarlund-Roberts version of the original Roberts circuits, has tried out numerous changes with the idea of improving the circuit. Some of the changes merely consisted in replacing the dials with those of a vernier type while other changes were made in the actual circuit arrangement.

According to John B. Brennan, technical editor of Radio Broadcast, who describes the changes in a recent issue of that magazine, it was found that the substitution of a different form of regeneration in the detector circuit, in place of the variable tickler method, would permit smoother control. It would also eliminate the changing field set up by the variation of the tickler coil position. The method found to be most successful, and involving the least number of changes, was the condenser-feedback regeneration system, involving only the addition of a small variable condenser of the midget type, and a radio-frequency choke coil.

Removing the Parts.

In making this change, the entire detector coil unit is unsoldered from its connecting leads and removed from the panel. Then the tickler coil and its shaft are removed by simply cutting off that part of the bakelite strip which supports the shaft and its bearing. The bushing, located on the top of the bakelite mounting strip, is removed from the cut-off section and, by means of a 6-32 machine screw, is fastened at the bottom of the mounting strip. This screw replaces the one used to hold the coil between its insulated support strips. Now, at that end of the secondary coil at which the NP coil is located, a tap is made, 13 turns from the bottom turn. This tap may be just below the letter "S," which indicates the secondary of the detector coil, on the accompanying diagram.

The detector coil may now be laid aside. A 15-plate Hammarlund midget condenser is mounted in the hole formerly taken up by the shaft of the tickler coil. When this is accomplished, the detector coil mounting holes are "spotted" on the main panel. These holes are drilled and countersunk for the 6-32 machine screws which screw into the mounting bushings on the coil unit.

To obtain regeneration satisfactorily with these alterations, it is necessary to include a choke coil in the audio-transformer primary circuit. The choke is employed to keep the radio-frequency currents out of the transformer primary circuit so that the only path for these currents to take is through the capacity element employed for regeneration. This choke coil may be mounted on the sub-panel in the place left vacant by discarding one of the parallel audio-stage sockets, as is explained later. It will be noted that the bypass condenser employed to shunt the primary audio-transformer has been eliminated from the circuit.

At Reduced Volume.

Many times it is found advisable to operate the receiver at reduced volume. In its original state, the only way to accomplish this was to increase the value of resistance in the filament circuit of the radio-frequency amplifier tube, or loosen up on the regeneration or sensitivity control. Quality sometimes suffered when the former method was employed. Selectivity and sensitivity suffered in the latter. As a final refinement for volume adjustment, and also as a tone control, the rheostat and fixed resistance for the radio-frequency amplifier stage are removed. In the audio-amplifier circuit, their volume control functions are taken over by employing a variable high resistance of the value of 500,000 ohms in shunt across the secondary of the first audio-transformer. One of the objects of this shunt resistance lies in its tendency to give the amplifier a "flatter" characteristic, that is, all frequencies will be amplified alike. To make it possible to change readily from the last audio stage to the first audio stage required nothing more than inclusion of a jack in the primary circuit of the first stage audio-transformer. At the same time it was found desirable to have some automatic means of turning off the last audio-amplifier filament when the phones were used on the first stage. Filament circuit jacks did the trick. To employ this type of jack in the circuit shown, sometimes necessitates alterations being made to the jacks obtained, however. In the circuit described in the Radio Broadcast Magazine article, two No. 105 Carter jacks were taken apart and the blades rearranged so as to correspond with the blade positions as shown in the accompanying circuit diagram. As a final circuit change, Mr. Brennan recommends that one of the parallel tube sockets in the last audio stage be removed and its amperite wired in the circuit to control the radio-frequency stage. Then in the remaining last stage socket a UX-112 or UX-117 tube is employed as a power stage. It will be found that the grid-plate shunt condenser for the last stage may be removed when the power tube is employed.

Have Short Grid Wires; Others May Be Bunched

The importance of short and direct connections between the various parts of a radio receiver is in general rather exaggerated by some radio writers. The oft-repeated admonition to keep wires short and straight is offered with all good intentions, but in many cases it drives amateur constructors into making cubist-looking sets, with the components arranged in odd positions so as to make their interconnecting leads straight and direct. Really, the only important wires which must be kept short and free of all others are those running directly from the grid posts of the tube sockets to related instruments, and even then the radio-frequency tubes are the only ones at all critical in this respect.

The particular connections whose brevity is conducive to good results are those from the grid ends of tuning inductances to the "G" terminals of the respective tube sockets and interspersed grid condensers, from those same ends to the stationary plates of the related tuning condensers or from the condensers to the grid posts if the connections are made that way. Also to be included in the list are the wires from the "P" posts of radio-frequency tube receptacles to the "P" sides of radio-frequency transformer primaries.

It is advisable, but not so urgently essential to keep the grid connections on the audio amplifiers short. However, if they do take a few twists or lie across some other wires they will not seriously affect the operation of the receiver, as similarly mistreated wires in the radio-frequency magnifiers are certain to do.

All the other wires in a set, including the filament returns, the "A," "B" and "C" battery and rheostat and switch leads, may be bunched together into one cable without harming the outfit in the slightest. There is no need at all for stiff busbar and carefully separated connections; insulated solid or flexible No. 18 wire is just as good and can be handled much more easily.

Some raido fans may find it difficult to reconcile these facts with some of the things they have read about radio, but they are facts nevertheless.

The practicability of the bunched wiring method is being recognized more and more by fans and manufacturers alike, and it probably will not be long before delicately installed, right-angle-bend busbar wiring becomes the mark of an old set.

Some Hints on Care of Your Portable Outfit

Here are more simple rules to take care of a portable receiver on vacation trips: Be sure all wires are tightly soldered and the receiver works perfectly before it is taken on the trip. Carry a couple of extra vacuum tubes and spare dry cell batteries if the trip is one which makes it impossible to find a supply base at a reasonable distance. Handle the loud speaker with care and see that all aerial and ground connections are made just as good as possible.

Cemeteries in Turkey Made Social Centers

One of the gayest and most colorful spots of Constantinople is the cemetery. Not only is it a garden where shady cypress trees form an ideal cool retreat for hot summer days, but it is filled with flower beds, little pagodas, winding paths, green lawns and refreshment peddlers, says the Atlanta Constitution.

It is a sort of social center. Maids take their charges there for an afternoon's outing. It is a rendezvous for the officers of the garrison with the little cocottes from the city. A Moslem religious teacher will often go there with his whole class to continue his instructions in the Koran. And toward twilight, with the crescent moon throwing a silvery sheen over the tree branches, it becomes a garden of Aphrodite for a thousand lovers.

If your eyes are sore, get Roman Eye Balsam. Apply it at night and you are healed by morning. 372 Pearl St., N. Y. Adv.

Billions in Railroads

It is estimated that by the end of 1926 the total investment in railroads of the United States will reach $24,000,000,000, the largest sum put into any one industry in the world. In 1926 the improvement bill for the railroads will be $750,000,000 on conservative estimate. Railroad men are predicting the heaviest fall traffic this year in history and are preparing for it.

Differences in Love

"Man is the hunter; woman the quarry. Once a woman has given all, she longs to go on giving. Once a man has taken all, the quest loses savor. Woman pours out her love from a never-emptying chalice. Man dashes the cup to the ground once he has drained it," writes Jane Cowl, eminent American actress, in an article in Liberty.

Ultimate in Class Spirit

The one surviving member of Amherst college's class of 1861 held a reunion all by himself, elected himself president and secretary, at his dinner and adjourned himself. He is Rev. Edwin A. Adams of Walpole, Mass., and no alumnus is more loyal to alma mater.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Thrifty Britishers

With nearly £15,000,000 ($75,000,000) in their municipal bank, the people of Birmingham claim that the city is the thriftiest in the world.

A Bad Buy

It was Jack's first trip to the lake and he had been provided with his own little bathing suit, bought for the occasion. Being lowered into the water, its coldness startled him and he cried out, "Daddy, take this bathing suit back. It's no good. It leaks."

What makes radishes so seductive is that one knows he oughtn't to eat them.

R PREVENTION OF ROSSING ACCIDENTS

evention of grade crossing acci- is so easy and simple that there excuse for such accidents. All is necessary is to look in both ions to see whether a train is oaching. If a train is approach- top, and let it go by.

hen there is more than one track, after a train has passed, to make that another train is not ap- proaching on one of the other tracks.

Where a crossing does not afford good vision, because of view being obstructed by building, trees, curves or embankment, stop, look and listen before crossing.

When signals are in action, cross- ing gates lowered or flagmen is at crossing, train is approaching; and driver should stop, and let it pass.

These are reasonable regulations. If observed, they will prevent grade crossing accidents just as effectively as grade changes. When not observed, the driver's license should be can- celed.

In other words, by such regulations, crossing accidents can be averted without loading up municipalities with taxes for grade changes.

This Saturday, August 14, Richard Dix in "Womanhandled" will be the feature at the New State Theatre. Those who have seen this picture acclaim it one of the best that this popular star has ever appeared in. In addition there will be Lightning Hutch and added features.

If there isn't a "mystery witness" connected with it, it's not a real front- page crime.

LAUDS "PHONE-FOR-FOOD" PLAN AS GOOD ECONOMICS

Writing on the chain-store grocery business in a recent issue of "Com- merce and Finance," a grocery trade expert sums up the advantages of the "Phone for Food" movement, which is making such notable progress among independent grocers.

"The selling of goods by phone," this authority declares, "proves up economically in a surprisingly con- vincing way." The economic value of the plan, he points out, is due to the fact that it "cuts selling time, selling costs, increases the size of the average order, reduces store congestion, lowers store rentals, and levels off 'peak hours' of trade, both in the day and through the week."

ANTONYMS

A teacher was instructing her class in the use of antonyms.

"Now children," she said, "what is the opposite of sorrow?"

"Joy," shrieked the class in unison.

"What is the opposite of pleasure?"

"Pain."

"And what is the opposite of woe?"

"Giddap."

Mr. Ivan Healton will offer geography to those students who are interested in learning about other lands. Since Mr. Healton toured France and Spain in the summer of 1925, he will be able to present much of his material from first-hand experience.
